SH7801 Human Values and Professional Ethics

CIA 1 (2025-26)

Important Questions for Human Values

Part A

Answer the following questions in 30 words each. 2 marks

1. Value education deals with .....

   a) What is universally valuable to all of us.
   b) What is conducive to our individual and collective happiness.
   c) It enables us to be in harmony with us, others, and the rest of nature.
   d) All the above.

   Answer: d. All the above

2. How to establish harmony in the family?

   ANS: Family is a basic social unit. It needs a lot of commitment between couples, parents and children.

   a) Commitment: They make their relationships a high priority.
   b) Appreciation: They let other family members know, daily, they were appreciated.
   c) Communication: They talk to each other about big issues as well as small issues.
   d) Time together: They are deliberate about planning activities.
   e) Unity: Unity is important, there will be misunderstanding, fight, but forgive and move on. Accept as they are and plan for change in behviour, personality in a positive way.
   f) Love and sacrifice: above all, family members are blood related, so, each one should stand up for the other and for the entire family.

3. Today we are not able to have fulfilling relationships all the time: in family and in society. Identify a reason for this.

   ANS: To resolve the issues in human relationships, we need to understand them first, and this would come from ‘right understanding of relationship’. Similarly, to be prosperous and to enrich nature, we need to have the ‘right understanding’. The ‘right understanding’ will enable us to work out our requirements for physical facilities and hence correctly distinguish the difference between wealth and prosperity.

4. “Physical facilities are necessary and complete for animals, while they are necessary but not complete for humans.” Do you agree with this statement? Give a reason for your answer.

   ANS: Yes. Giving all priorities to physical facilities only, or to live solely based on physical facilities, may be termed as ‘Animal Consciousness’. Living with all three: Right understanding, Relationship and Physical facilities is called ‘Human Consciousness’.

5. Illustrate the importance of Human values in our daily life.

   ANS: The value of a human being is the participation of human beings in this order. Hence to understand human values, we need to understand the human reality along with all that is there in that existence constituting the larger order, and the role of human being in the relationship with each unit in existence.
   Values decide the standard of behavior. Some universally accepted values are freedom, justice and equality. Other principles of values are love, care, honesty, integrity, and self-respect.

6. Self-exploration is a process of dialogue between 'what you are 'and 'what you really want to be'. Explain and illustrate.

   ANS: Self-exploration is the process to find out what is valuable to me by investigating within myself, what is right for me, true for me, must be judged within myself. Through self-exploration we get the value of self.
   It is a process of focusing attention on oneself, our present beliefs and aspirations as well as what we really want to be (that is to say, what is naturally acceptable to us).

7. Briefly describe the importance of feelings in a relationship between a parent and a child.

   ANS: Feelings in a parent-child relationship foster trust, emotional bonding, and healthy development, enabling effective communication, conflict resolution, and modeling empathy, crucial for the child's overall well-being and growth.

8. Enumerate any TWO importance of REVERENCE in the workplace.

   ANS:
   Enhanced Collaboration and Teamwork: Reverence fosters an environment of mutual respect, where employees value each other's contributions.
   Positive Work Culture: A culture of reverence reduces conflicts and promotes a supportive and respectful atmosphere, which improves job satisfaction, employee morale, and retention, creating a more harmonious and effective workplace.

9. Explain the role of education to bring in harmony in society.

   ANS: Education makes a person realize the difference between good and bad. There is little doubt to assert that the spirit of any democracy is to promote and champion good causes. Thus education becomes a powerful tool to achieve objectives. Thus peace, harmony and development are the manifestation of education. Education can also help people develop critical thinking skills, ethical values, and civic awareness, which can contribute to political stability and democracy.

10. Choose the right options for the following questions:
    i) Which of the following best promotes social harmony?
    a) Segregation b) Understanding and tolerance c) Discrimination d) Conflict

ii) Which institution plays a crucial role in fostering social harmony?
a) Educational institutions b) Financial institutions c) Military institutions
d) corporate institutions

ANS: i) b. Understanding and tolerance
ii) a. Educational institutions

11. What do you think happiness is dependent upon?

(Own answer)

12. Say whether the following statements are True or False.

- Wealth means prosperity.
- We can be prosperous only if there is no limit to the need for physical facilities.
- We can achieve continuous happiness through sensory interactions.
- To resolve the issues in human relationships, 'Right Understanding' is essential.

ANS: a) False b) False c) False d) True

13. List any FOUR kinds of love.

ANS: 1. Love for humankind. 2 Love for parents/family 3. Love for friends, relatives and colleagues 4. Romantic love

Part B

Answer the following questions in about 250 words each. 13 marks

1. Values must enable us to live in peace and harmony within our own self as well as with family, society and with nature. Justify the statement with examples.

ANS: Values act as guiding principles that influence our behaviour, decisions, and interactions. Let's explore how values contribute to peace and harmony in different contexts:

a. Inner Peace
Value: Self-Compassion
When we practice self-compassion, we treat ourselves with kindness and understanding, especially during times of failure or difficulty. This value helps in maintaining inner peace by reducing self criticism and promoting a positive self-image.
Example: Someone who values self-compassion might face a career setback with resilience, acknowledging their feelings without harsh judgment. This approach allows them to recover more quickly and maintain emotional stability.

b. Family Harmony
Value: Respect

Respect in family relationships means recognizing and valuing each other's opinions, boundaries, and individuality. It fosters open communication and reduces conflicts.
Example: In a family with diverse opinions, such as differing political or religious views, maintaining respect helps in managing disagreements constructively. Family members listen to each other's perspectives without dismissing or belittling them, leading to stronger and more harmonious relationships.

c. Social Harmony
Value: Empathy
Empathy involves understanding and sharing the feelings of others. It is crucial for building strong, supportive social networks and fostering cooperative behavior.
Example: A community facing economic hardship benefits from the empathetic efforts of its members who volunteer to help those in need. This collective understanding and support create a stronger, more unified community, enhancing social cohesion and mutual assistance.

d. Environmental Harmony
Value: Stewardship
Stewardship refers to the responsible management and care of the environment. By adopting this value, individuals and societies work towards preserving natural resources and ensuring sustainable living.
Example: A society that values environmental stewardship might implement recycling programs, support renewable energy sources, and protect natural habitats. Such actions contribute to environmental sustainability and help maintain a balanced ecosystem, benefiting both current and future generations.

Integration of Values
Values like self-compassion, respect, empathy, and stewardship are interconnected and support each other. For instance, practicing self-compassion can enhance one's ability to empathize with others.
Similarly, respecting nature through stewardship can improve quality of life, which in turn fosters inner peace.

Conclusion:
In summary, values play a pivotal role in creating a balanced and harmonious existence. They guide us in managing our inner world, nurturing relationships, contributing positively to society, and caring for the environment. By aligning our actions with these values, we can foster peace and harmony both within ourselves and in our interactions with others and the world around us.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

2. How does empathy towards others foster a sense of connection and harmony? Give suitable examples to substantiate your points.

ANS: Empathy towards others' experiences plays a crucial role in fostering a sense of connection and harmony in various ways:

a. Understanding and Validation: When we empathize with someone, we make an effort to understand their feelings, perspectives, and experiences. This validation of their emotions helps them feel heard and appreciated, strengthening our bond with them.
b. Building Trust: Empathy builds trust because it demonstrates that we genuinely care about others' well-being. When people feel understood and supported, they are more likely to trust us and reciprocate the empathy, creating a positive cycle of connection.
c. Conflict Resolution: Empathy is essential in resolving conflicts because it allows us to see the situation from the other person's point of view. By understanding their feelings and motivations, we can find common ground and work towards mutually beneficial solutions, reducing tension and promoting harmony.
d. Promoting Cooperation and Collaboration: Empathy encourages teamwork and collaboration because it fosters a sense of unity and shared purpose. When individuals feel understood and valued, they are more willing to work together towards common goals, leading to more effective and harmonious relationships.
e. Reducing Prejudice and Bias: Empathy helps challenge stereotypes and biases by encouraging us to see people as individuals with unique experiences and feelings. It promotes inclusivity and acceptance, fostering a more tolerant and harmonious community.
f. Supporting Emotional Well-being: When we empathize with others, we provide emotional support that can significantly impact their well-being. Knowing that someone understands and empathizes with their struggles can alleviate feelings of loneliness and isolation, contributing to a harmonious environment.
g. Cultivating Compassion: Empathy is closely linked to compassion, the motivation to alleviate others' suffering. Compassionate actions towards others create a culture of kindness and generosity, reinforcing connections and promoting a harmonious society.
Conclusion:
In summary, empathy towards others' experiences fosters connection and harmony by promoting understanding, building trust, facilitating conflict resolution, encouraging cooperation, reducing prejudice, supporting emotional well-being, and cultivating compassion. It serves as a cornerstone for building positive relationships and creating inclusive communities where everyone feels valued and respected.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

3. "To be in a state of harmony is happiness". Explain this statement and illustrate with two examples from your day-to-day life.

(Own Answer)

---

4. Critically analyze how Trust, respect, affection, care, and love play a significant role in building harmony in a relationship.

ANS: Trust, respect, affection, care, and love are foundational pillars in any healthy and harmonious relationship. Each of these elements contributes to creating a deep and meaningful connection between individuals, whether in romantic, familial, or platonic bonds. Let's break them down:

A. Trust: Trust is the bedrock of any strong relationship. Without it, doubts and insecurities creep in, which can cause misunderstandings or even conflicts. Trust allows people to be vulnerable with each other, knowing that they will be supported, understood, and valued.

B. Respect: Mutual respect is key. It means valuing each other's opinions, feelings, and boundaries. When people feel respected, they feel seen and heard. It also fosters an environment where each person can grow without fear of judgment or criticism.

C. Affection: Affection is the emotional and physical expression of love, care, and appreciation. It helps to keep the emotional connection strong. Small gestures, like a hug, a compliment, or just spending quality time together, go a long way in reinforcing the bond.

D. Care: Caring for someone means considering their well-being and putting in effort to meet their needs—whether emotional, physical, or psychological. It's about showing empathy and making the other person feel valued, important, and supported, especially during tough nurturing each other's growth. Love isn't just a feeling; it's an action that involves patience, compromise, and shared experiences. times.

E. Love: Love is the deeper feeling that ties everything together. It's an ongoing commitment to the relationship, to making it work, and to nurturing each other's growth. Love isn't just a feeling; it's an action that involves patience, compromise, and shared experiences.

Conclusion: Together, these elements create a relationship that is not only harmonious but also resilient. They help people weather challenges and enjoy the joys of life together. The more these qualities are present and nurtured, the stronger and more fulfilling the relationship becomes.

Definition : 3 marks
Analysis : 8 marks
Conclusion : 2 marks

---

5. How do we disrespect others based on body, physical facilities, or beliefs? Identify the consequences of this lack of the right understanding of their feelings?

ANS: Human values are the need of the hour. We should be happy with what we have. Money and things (car, house etc.) cannot give happiness. It may give luxury and comfort. We need to earn money to live. But we should value family and relationships. Money can't give happiness. Don't be greedy on earning money. We should practice human values at any cost. We can attain happiness by practicing human values.

Differentiation In Relationships occur

a) On the basis of physical facilities

i) Wealth: We differentiate people because some have more wealth than others. What we term as a "rich person" gets idolized. We don't even bother to find out whether such people are feeling prosperous, or if they just have wealth. This way, we are over-evaluating physical facilities first, which are just meant to fulfil the needs of the body, and then on this basis, we are wrongly identifying our relationship.

ii) Post: We try to respect on the basis of a person's position. The post is wrongly evaluated as the mark of a person's excellence and differentiation sets in. The post is considered important either on the basis that it gives more physical facilities or on the basis that certain positions are assumed to be important. In our education, we are trained directly or indirectly to earn posts for us to fetch respect.

b) On the basis of beliefs

i) 'Isms': 'Ism' means any belief in terms of a 'thought system' that we have, or that we have adopted. There are also many modern 'isms' such as capitalism, socialism, communism, etc. The people following these sets of beliefs are called capitalists, socialists, communists, and so on. The people that have adopted them or are following them have been exposed to them since childhood. Believing theirs to be the right belief. However, all beliefs, as we have seen, are at the level of desires, thoughts and expectations (selections) in 'I'. There is no definiteness at this level, and hence, this becomes a cause for differentiation.

ii) Sects: People of one sect only consider those with a similar belief system to be their 'own' and worthy of respect. Following a particular tradition, or what we call religion, becomes the basis of respect and disrespect in relationships.

Problems Faced Due to Differentiation In Relationships:

i) Differentiation based on sex/gender: Issue of women's rights is rampant. Women protest and demand for equality in education, in jobs, and in peoples' representation. People are insecure and afraid of one another based on their gender.

ii) Differentiation based on race: There are many movements and protests against racial discrimination, with demands for equality. Racial attacks and caste discrimination make people live in fear of such racism, racist attacks, casteism and discrimination.

iii) Differentiation based on age: Protests and movements demand equal rights for children on the one hand and rights for elderly people on the other. There is a generation gap based on age.

iv) Differentiation based on wealth: Class struggles and movements happen to do away with class-differentiation. Many people suffer from a lack of self-esteem and some even commit suicide,

v) Differentiation based on post: Protests happen against high handed government officials. At the level of the individual, it leads to depression.

vi) Differentiation based on 'isms: Fights, turmoil, terrorism and war result based on this. People convert from one Ism to another in order to be able to get more respect.

vii) Differentiation based on sects: Countless religions and sects exist. Each sect tries to ensure that there is no discrimination against people of their belief and demands for special provisions in jobs and in education.

Introduction : 2 marks
Explanation for consequences : 8 marks
Suitable conclusion : 3 marks

---

6. Lack of Communication, lack of respect and lack of empathy, roles, responsibilities and financial instability are some of the factors that affect harmony in family. Illustrate these points in detail and how to overcome them.

ANS:

a. Lack of Communication

Impact:

● Misunderstandings and Conflicts: Poor communication can lead to misunderstandings about intentions, needs, and expectations. This can result in arguments and a breakdown of trust.

● Emotional Distance: When family members do not communicate openly, it can lead to emotional distance and a sense of isolation.

Overcoming Communication Issues:

● Regular Family Meetings: Schedule regular times to discuss family matters, share experiences, and address any issues. This creates a structured opportunity for open dialogue.

● Active Listening: Practice active listening by focusing on what the other person is saying, asking clarifying questions, and showing understanding. Avoid interrupting or dismissing their points.

● Clear Expression: Encourage family members to express their thoughts and feelings clearly and directly. Use "I" statements (e.g., "I feel…"), which can help in conveying personal feelings without sounding accusatory.

b. Lack of Respect

Impact:

● Conflict and Resentment: Disrespect can lead to conflicts and a buildup of resentment. This includes dismissing each other's opinions, disregarding boundaries, or undervaluing contributions.

● Decreased Cooperation: Without mutual respect, family members may be less willing to cooperate and support each other.

Overcoming Respect Issues:

● Acknowledge Boundaries: Recognize and respect personal space and boundaries. Ensure that each family member's privacy and individual needs are honored.

● Value Contributions: Show appreciation for each other's efforts and contributions. Acknowledge and thank family members for their roles and responsibilities.

● Model Respect: Demonstrate respect through your actions and language. This sets a positive example for others and helps to create a respectful environment.

c. Lack of Empathy

Impact:

● Emotional Disconnect: Without empathy, family members may struggle to connect emotionally and understand each other's experiences, leading to feelings of alienation.

● Increased Conflict: Lack of empathy can exacerbate conflicts, as family members may become more focused on their own perspectives rather than understanding others.

Overcoming Empathy Issues:

● Practice Perspective-Taking: Encourage family members to consider others' viewpoints and feelings. Engage in discussions where each person shares their perspective and feelings.

● Offer Support: Be proactive in offering support during difficult times. Show understanding and compassion when someone is facing challenges.

● Reflective Listening: Use reflective listening techniques to validate and acknowledge others' feelings. This involves summarizing what the other person has said and expressing understanding.

d. Roles and Responsibilities

Impact:

● Imbalance and Resentment: Ambiguity or unfair distribution of roles and responsibilities can lead to resentment and feelings of being overwhelmed. This can create tension and conflicts.

● Inefficiency: Without clear roles, tasks may be neglected or duplicated, leading to inefficiency and frustration.

Overcoming Role and Responsibility Issues:

● Define and Discuss Roles: Clearly define each family member’s roles and responsibilities.

Discuss and agree upon who is responsible for what tasks to ensure fairness.

● Adjust as Needed: Be flexible and willing to adjust roles and responsibilities as family needs change. Reassess and redistribute tasks to maintain balance.

● Encourage Teamwork: Foster a sense of teamwork and cooperation in handling household tasks. This can help in sharing responsibilities more effectively and reducing individual burden.

e. Financial Instability

Impact:

● Stress and Conflict: Financial problems can lead to stress and conflict, impacting family relationships and overall harmony. Disagreements over money can strain interactions.

● Lack of Security: Financial instability can undermine the family’s sense of security and stability, affecting well-being and family dynamics.

Overcoming Financial Issues:

● Create a Budget: Develop a family budget to manage expenses and track income. Set financial goals and priorities to guide spending and saving.

● Open Financial Discussions: Have open and honest discussions about financial matters. This includes discussing financial goals, concerns, and strategies for managing money.

● Seek Professional Help: Consider consulting a financial advisor or counsellor to get expert guidance on managing finances and creating a financial plan.

Conclusion

Addressing these challenges – communication, respect, empathy, roles and responsibilities, and financial stability – is essential for fostering family harmony. By implementing strategies to overcome these issues, families can improve their relationships, enhance cooperation, and create a more supportive and nurturing environment. Through mutual effort and understanding, families can work towards a more harmonious and fulfilling life together.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

7. Illustrate how the core human values are crucial to human behaviour with respect to self, family, and society.

ANS: Core human values such as honesty, integrity, compassion, respect, and responsibility play a fundamental role in shaping human behaviour and interactions within the spheres of self, family, and society. Here's how these values are crucial in each context:

i. Self

Core Values:

● Honesty
● Integrity
● Self-Discipline

Impact on Behaviour:

● Honesty and Integrity: These values guide individuals to be truthful and maintain consistency between their actions and values. This fosters self-respect and trust in one's own decisions and actions.

● Self-Discipline: Helps in setting and achieving personal goals by adhering to long-term objectives and resisting short-term temptations.

Examples:

● Honesty: An individual who values honesty will be truthful in their personal and professional life, leading to authentic relationships and self-respect.

● Integrity: A person with integrity will act according to their principles even when it's difficult, leading to a strong sense of self-worth and internal consistency.
● Self-Discipline: An individual who practices self-discipline might adhere to a healthy lifestyle or persistently work towards career goals, resulting in personal growth and achievement.

ii. Family

Core Values:
● Respect
● Empathy
● Responsibility

Impact on Behaviour:
● Respect: Fosters positive and supportive interactions, enabling family members to appreciate each other's differences and contributions.
● Empathy: Helps family members understand and share each other's feelings, promoting emotional connection and support.
● Responsibility: Encourages family members to fulfill their roles and duties, contributing to a well-functioning and harmonious household.

Examples:
● Respect: Showing respect in family interactions, such as listening actively and valuing each other's opinions, strengthens relationships and reduces conflicts.
● Empathy: Offering emotional support and understanding when a family member faces challenges helps build trust and solidarity within the family.
● Responsibility: A responsible family member might actively contribute to household chores or care for other family members, ensuring that everyone's needs are met and promoting a sense of shared purpose.

iii. Society

Core Values:
● Justice
● Compassion
● Cooperation

Impact on Behaviour:
● Justice: Drives individuals to act fairly and advocate for equitable treatment, which supports cohesion and trust in societal institutions.
● Compassion: Motivates individuals to help others in need and engage in acts of kindness, contributing to a more supportive and inclusive community.
● Cooperation: Facilitates working together towards common goals, promoting community development and social harmony.

Examples:

● Justice: Advocating for equal rights and fair treatment of all individuals helps to build a more just society where everyone can thrive.
● Compassion: Volunteering at local shelters or supporting charitable causes reflects compassion and helps to address societal issues and support those in need.
● Cooperation: Participating in community projects or collaborative efforts, such as neighbourhood clean-ups or public health initiatives, demonstrates the value of cooperation and strengthens community bonds.

Conclusion
Core human values are foundational to guiding behaviour and interactions at personal, familial, and societal levels. They shape how individuals act, relate to others, and contribute to the community. By upholding values such as honesty, respect, empathy, responsibility, justice, compassion, and cooperation, individuals can foster positive relationships, contribute to a harmonious family environment, and support a just and thriving society.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

8. We try to achieve happiness and prosperity by maximizing accumulation and consumption of physical facilities. What are the negative consequences of this misunderstanding of 'happiness' and 'prosperity' at the level of individual, family, society, and nature?

ANS: This effort is giving rise to many problems manifest today at the level of individual, family, society and nature. It is becoming anti-ecological and anti-people and threatening human survival itself. Some of the consequences of such a trend are summarized below:
·At the level of individual – Rising problems of depression, anxiety, suicides, stress, insecurity, increasing health problems, lack of confidence and conviction etc.

·At the level of family – Breaking up of joint families, mistrust and disharmony in relationships, divorce, generation gap, dowry deaths, neglect of older people etc.

·At the level of society – Growing incidents of terrorism, violence, communalism, racial and ethnic struggle, corruption, adulteration, sex-crimes exploitation, wars between nations, proliferation of lethal weapons etc.

·At the level of nature – Global warming, weather imbalances, depletion of mineral and energy resources, deforestation, soil degradation, hunting, poaching (smuggling of wild animals) etc.

All the problems are a direct outcome of an incorrect understanding about happiness and prosperity and their continuity. This is a serious cause of concern for us.

Introduction - 2 marks
Negative consequences the level of individual - 21/2 marks
Negative consequences the level of family - 21/2 marks
Negative consequences the level of society - 21/2 marks
Negative consequences the level of nature - 21/2 marks
Conclusion - 1 mark

---

9. What do you understand by 'Right Understanding'? How do you think issues in human relationships could be solved through 'Right Understanding'?

ANS 'Right Understanding' refers to higher order human skills – the need to learn and utilize our intelligence most effectively. In order to resolve the issues in human relationships, we need to understand them first, and this would result in good relationships.
In order to be prosperous and happy, we need to have the 'right understanding' of the two concepts. Our 'right understanding' of things will enable us to distinguish between wealth and prosperity. To lead a comfortable life man accumulates many physical facilities, to make life comfortable and happy. When our body gets used to a certain level of comfort, then we imagine that we feel comfortable and happy only at that level - eg. comfort using fan, cooler or air conditioner. But in reality, our happiness depends on our thinking and it is a state of mind created by inner harmony. This is why we feel unsatisfied and unhappy, though surrounded by materialistic possessions. Our happiness relies on our thinking or on our mental satisfaction.

Introduction - 2 marks
What is Right Understanding? - 5 marks
How issues can be solved through it? - 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

10. How to deal with demanding situations in life practicing values?

ANS: Dealing with life's difficult situations using human values involves drawing on principles that guide ethical behavior, foster resilience, and promote well-being. Here are some ways to approach challenging circumstances while aligning with human values:

i. Integrity and Honesty: Uphold integrity by facing difficult situations with honesty and transparency. Avoid deceptive or unethical practices, as honesty builds trust and strengthens relationships.

ii. Compassion and Empathy: Show compassion towards yourself and others facing adversity. Understand and empathize with their emotions and challenges, offering support and kindness.
iii. Resilience and Perseverance: Cultivate resilience to bounce back from setbacks. Focus on solutions, learn from setbacks, and persist in pursuing goals despite obstacles.
iv. Justice and Fairness: Advocate for justice and fairness in resolving difficult situations. Treat others equitably and seek outcomes that uphold fairness and respect for all parties involved.
v. Courage and Responsibility: Display courage in making tough decisions or taking necessary actions, even when they are challenging. Take responsibility for your choices and their consequences.
vi. Humility and Openness to Learning: Approach difficult situations with humility, acknowledging that you may not have all the answers. Stay open to learning from others' perspectives and experiences.
vii. Forgiveness and Healing: Practice forgiveness, both towards yourself and others, to promote healing and move forward constructively from past conflicts or mistakes.
viii. Community and Support: Seek support from trusted friends, family members, or community resources. Lean on your social network for emotional support and practical assistance during tough times.
ix. Mindfulness and Self-Care: Practice mindfulness to stay grounded and manage stress effectively. Prioritize self-care activities that nurture your physical, emotional, and mental well-being.
x. Positive Contribution: Look for opportunities to contribute positively to others' lives or to your community, even during challenging times. Contributing can foster a sense of purpose and meaning.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion – 2 marks

---

11. "Economic inequality impacts the harmony of a society"- What actions can an individual promote to bring harmony in their communities?

ANS: Individuals can take several actions to help address economic inequality and foster harmony within their communities. Some effective strategies:

i. Advocate for Fair Policies
Actions:

- Support Policy Initiatives: Advocate for and support policies aimed at reducing economic inequality, such as progressive taxation, minimum wage increases, and social safety nets.

- Engage in Civic Activities: Participate in local governance, attend town hall meetings, or join advocacy groups focused on economic justice and equality.

Examples:

- Petition and Campaign: Join or initiate petitions that call for policy changes aimed at reducing income inequality or improving access to affordable healthcare and education.
- Community Forums: Engage in or organize community forums to discuss economic issues and advocate for policy changes that promote economic equity.

ii. Promote Education and Skill Development

Actions:

- Volunteer as a Mentor: Offer mentorship and guidance to individuals from underprivileged backgrounds to help them gain skills and knowledge that can improve their economic prospects.
- Support Educational Programs: Contribute to or volunteer with organizations that provide educational resources and vocational training to disadvantaged communities.

Examples:

- Mentorship Programs: Volunteer with local schools or community organizations to mentor youth and adults in job skills, career planning, and higher education opportunities.
- Scholarship Contributions: Donate to or fund scholarships and educational programs that support students from low-income families.

iii. Support Local Businesses and Fair Trade

Actions:

- Shop Locally: Support small and local businesses, especially those owned by individuals from marginalized or economically disadvantaged groups.
- Engage in Fair Trade: Choose products that are certified fair trade to ensure that producers receive fair wages and work under decent conditions.

Examples:

- Local Business Patronage: Buy goods and services from local businesses, farmers' markets, and community enterprises to help strengthen the local economy.
- Fair Trade Products: Purchase fair trade coffee, clothing, or crafts to support equitable trade practices and improve the livelihoods of producers in developing countries.

iv. Promote Financial Literacy

Actions:

- Conduct Workshops: Organize or participate in workshops that teach financial literacy and money management skills to community members.
- Share Resources: Distribute information on budgeting, saving, and investing to help individuals manage their finances better and build economic stability.

Examples:

- Community Classes: Set up or volunteer for community classes that teach financial literacy skills, including budgeting, saving, and understanding credit.
- Resource Sharing: Provide access to online tools or resources for financial planning and education to community members.

v. Foster Inclusivity and Social Integration

Actions:

- Build Community Networks: Create or join community networks that focus on inclusivity and support for marginalized groups.
- Promote Social Integration: Engage in activities that bridge social and economic divides, such as community dinners, cultural events, or inclusive social programs.

Examples:

- Community Projects: Organize events that bring together diverse groups within the community, such as neighborhood clean-ups or cultural festivals.
- Engage in volunteering and social work. Cultural festivals, sports activities, Job fair for unprivileged women and unemployed youth etc. can bring a change in their attitude, behaviour.

---

12. Explain in detail the seven kinds of LOVE with real life examples.

The seven kinds of love, based on the ancient Greek philosophy, provide a framework for understanding different types of love in human relationships. These kinds of love vary in intensity, form, and purpose. Here's an overview of each, along with real-life examples:

i. Eros (Romantic Love)

Definition: Eros is passionate, intense, and often associated with sexual attraction. It's the kind of love that is fueled by physical and emotional desire, often experienced in the early stages of a romantic relationship.

Example:

- A couple on a first date: The chemistry, the excitement, and the attraction they feel towards each other is pure eros. It's a love based on physical desire and romantic connection.
- Teenage crushes: A young person experiencing the flutter of infatuation for someone they find physically attractive or intriguing.

ii. Philia (Friendship or Brotherly Love)

Definition: Philia is the love between friends. It's a deep sense of camaraderie and shared values. Unlike eros, philia is built on trust, mutual respect, and shared interests.

Example:

- Best friends: Two people who have known each other for years, support each other through challenges, and share inside jokes and life milestones, like planning a trip together or celebrating promotions.

- A supportive work relationship: Colleagues who not only collaborate on projects but have developed a genuine friendship, offering each other emotional support during tough times.

iii. Storge (Familial Love)
Definition: Storge is the natural affection that occurs between family members. This type of love is often unconditional and based on familiarity, care, and long-term bonds.
Example:

- A parent and child: A mother caring for her newborn, or a father supporting his teenage child through school and personal challenges. This love is often instinctual and deep.
- Siblings: Brothers and sisters who may fight and argue but ultimately have each other's back in times of need, like siblings coming together to care for an elderly parent.

iv. Ludus (Playful or Childlike Love)
Definition: Ludus is the playful, flirtatious kind of love. It's light-hearted, fun, and often seen in the early stages of a relationship or between people who enjoy each other's company without the pressures of commitment.
Example:

- Flirting with someone at a party: Engaging in playful banter and teasing without any serious intentions, enjoying the excitement of light-hearted interaction.
- Playing games with a partner: Couples who bond by enjoying playful activities like dancing, games, or joking around, without the weight of serious expectations.

v. Pragma (Enduring Love)
Definition: Pragma is a practical, enduring love that develops over time. It's the love seen in long-term relationships, marriages, and partnerships where commitment, mutual respect, and shared goals are central. It involves compromise and working through challenges together.
Example:

- A couple married for decades: Two people who have been together for many years and have learned to adapt, compromise, and support each other through life's ups and downs - whether that's raising children or managing finances together.
- Long-term business partners: Two people who work together in a partnership for years, respecting each other's strengths and weaknesses, navigating business challenges together.

vi. Agape (Selfless Love or Unconditional Love)
Definition: Agape is the highest form of love. It's selfless, unconditional, and often described as a love that expects nothing in return. It's about giving freely, caring deeply, and showing kindness even when it's difficult.
Example:

- Parents loving their children: Parents who love their children unconditionally, supporting them no matter their mistakes or struggles. It's the love that motivates a mother to sacrifice for her child's future or a father to work long hours for his family's well-being.
- Volunteering: A person dedicating their time to help others without expecting anything in return, such as a volunteer working in a shelter or a mentor guiding a young person through tough times.

vii. (Self-Love)
Definition: Philautic is the love one has for oneself. This type of love is essential for personal well-being and is about self-care, self-respect, and having a healthy self-esteem. It enables people to love and care for others in a meaningful way because they have a positive relationship with themselves.
Example:

- Prioritizing mental health: Taking time to rest, reflect, and do things that nourish your spirit, like practising mindfulness or going for a walk in nature.
- Setting boundaries: A person who says no to toxic relationships or negative behaviors, choosing to maintain their well-being and peace of mind by setting healthy limits with others.

These seven kinds of love are not mutually exclusive - they can overlap and evolve over time in different relationships. A romantic relationship, for example, may begin with eros but grow into pragma as the couple deepens their connection. Similarly, agape can coexist with philia, such as in the love we feel for our closest friends or family.

Definition of love : 2 marks
Explanation : 10 marks
Conclusion : 1 mark

---

13. Justify the statement "Gratitude is Great" with suitable illustrations.

Gratitude is Great" - this simple phrase highlights the profound impact gratitude can have on our well-being, relationships, and overall outlook on life. Gratitude involves recognizing the good things we have, feeling appreciation for them, and expressing thanks. It can turn ordinary moments into extraordinary ones, improve mental health, and foster stronger connections with others.

Here are a few illustrations to show just how powerful and transformative gratitude can be:
i. Gratitude in Daily Life:

Illustration:
Imagine waking up in the morning, and instead of starting your day with frustration or stress, you take a moment to express gratitude for the simple things—like the warmth of your bed, the beauty of the sunrise, or the fact that you have the chance to begin a new day.

Impact:

By acknowledging what you're grateful for, even in small ways, you set a positive tone for your entire day. This habit of starting the day with gratitude can lead to increased happiness, reduce feelings of anxiety, and promote a sense of well-being.

ii. Gratitude in Relationships:

Illustration:

A couple, after many years of marriage, takes a moment to thank each other for the small, daily acts of love and kindness—whether it's cooking a favorite meal, offering a kind word after a stressful day, or simply showing up for one another.

Impact:

Expressing gratitude in relationships fosters emotional intimacy, strengthens trust, and helps each person feel valued. Small acknowledgments of appreciation prevent relationships from becoming stagnant or taken for granted, ensuring both partners continue to feel seen and loved.

iii. Gratitude in the Workplace:

Illustration:

A manager takes the time to thank an employee for their hard work on a recent project. Instead of just sending an email saying "good job," the manager writes a personalized note that highlights the specific contributions the employee made.

Impact:

This simple act of gratitude can boost the employee's morale, making them feel valued and appreciated. When people feel recognized for their efforts, they're more motivated, productive, and likely to stay engaged at work.

iv. Gratitude During Adversity:

Illustration:

After facing a challenging period—such as the loss of a job or experiencing a personal setback—someone takes time to reflect on the lessons they've learned, the support they've received from loved ones, and the new opportunities that have emerged as a result.

Impact:

Practicing gratitude during tough times helps shift the focus from what is lacking to what is still good. It can make a difficult situation feel more manageable, offering hope and a renewed perspective that leads to greater resilience.

v. Gratitude for Self-Care:

Illustration:

After a long, tiring week, a person takes time out of their busy schedule to do something restorative—whether it's enjoying a quiet cup of tea, taking a walk in nature, or having a long bath—and they mentally express gratitude for their ability to take care of themselves.

Impact:

By practicing gratitude for self-care, we reinforce the importance of taking care of our own needs and well-being. It helps break the cycle of self-neglect and encourages a healthier, more balanced lifestyle.

vi. Gratitude in Learning and Growth:

Illustration:

A student receives constructive feedback on an essay. Rather than feeling discouraged or defensive, they take a moment to feel grateful for the opportunity to improve and grow. They see the feedback not as criticism but as a chance to enhance their skills.

Impact:

Gratitude can turn challenges into opportunities for personal growth. When we can appreciate feedback and setbacks as a part of the learning process, we become more open to improvement and less resistant to change.

vii. Gratitude for Nature:

Illustration:

A person goes for a hike in the mountains, marvelling at the beauty of the landscape—tall trees, clear skies, and a peaceful river. They stop to reflect on how fortunate they are to experience such natural wonders.

Impact:

Gratitude for nature helps foster a deeper connection to the world around us and reminds us of the beauty that exists outside of our daily stresses. This kind of gratitude can promote mental clarity, reduce stress, and inspire a sense of peace.

The Benefits of Practicing Gratitude:

1. Improved Mental Health: People who regularly express gratitude experience lower levels of depression, anxiety, and stress. They tend to have more positive emotions and greater life satisfaction.
2. Stronger Relationships: Saying "thank you" more often, or simply appreciating what others do for us, can lead to closer, more trusting relationships. Gratitude helps nurture bonds and deepen connections.
3. Better Physical Health: Studies have shown that grateful people are healthier overall. They experience fewer ailments, sleep better, and have stronger immune systems.
4. Increased Resilience: Gratitude helps us build emotional strength. It's easier to bounce back from hardships when we focus on the positive aspects of our lives, such as the support of others, our own inner strength, and the lessons we've learned.
5. A Sense of Purpose: When we're grateful for the things we have, we often feel more connected to our purpose and mission in life. Gratitude can help us recognize the value of our daily actions and contributions.

How to Cultivate Gratitude:

1. Gratitude Journaling: Spend a few minutes each day writing down things you're thankful for.
2. Express Thanks: Make it a habit to express gratitude to others—whether it's a heartfelt thank you, a note, or a small gesture of appreciation.

3. Mindfulness: Practice mindfulness and be present in the moment, noticing the little things around you that are worthy of gratitude.
4. Reframe Negative Thoughts: When faced with challenges, try to find a silver lining and express gratitude for the lessons, the opportunities for growth, or the support you've received.

Introduction : 2 marks
Justification : 8 marks
Conclusion : 3 marks

---

14. Values must enable us to live in peace and harmony within our own self as well as with family, society and with nature. Justify the statement with examples.

ANS: Values act as guiding principles that influence our behaviour, decisions, and interactions. Let's explore how values contribute to peace and harmony in different contexts:

1. Inner Peace
Value: Self-Compassion
When we practice self-compassion, we treat ourselves with kindness and understanding, especially during times of failure or difficulty. This value helps in maintaining inner peace by reducing self-criticism and promoting a positive self-image.

Example: Someone who values self-compassion might face a career setback with resilience, acknowledging their feelings without harsh judgment. This approach allows them to recover more quickly and maintain emotional stability.

2. Family Harmony
Value: Respect
Respect in family relationships means recognizing and valuing each other's opinions, boundaries, and individuality. It fosters open communication and reduces conflicts.

Example: In a family with diverse opinions, such as differing political or religious views, maintaining respect helps in managing disagreements constructively. Family members listen to each other's perspectives without dismissing or belittling them, leading to stronger and more harmonious relationships.

3. Social Harmony
Value: Empathy
Empathy involves understanding and sharing the feelings of others. It is crucial for building strong, supportive social networks and fostering cooperative behavior.

Example: A community facing economic hardship benefits from the empathetic efforts of its members who volunteer to help those in need. This collective understanding and support create a stronger, more unified community, enhancing social cohesion and mutual assistance.

4. Environmental Harmony

Value: Stewardship

Stewardship refers to the responsible management and care of the environment. By adopting this value, individuals and societies work towards preserving natural resources and ensuring sustainable living.

> Example: A society that values environmental stewardship might implement recycling programs, support renewable energy sources, and protect natural habitats. Such actions contribute to environmental sustainability and help maintain a balanced ecosystem, benefiting both current and future generations.

Integration of Values

Values like self-compassion, respect, empathy, and stewardship are interconnected and support each other. For instance, practicing self-compassion can enhance one's ability to empathize with others. Similarly, respecting nature through stewardship can improve quality of life, which in turn fosters inner peace.

Conclusion: In summary, values play a pivotal role in creating a balanced and harmonious existence. They guide us in managing our inner world, nurturing relationships, contributing positively to society, and caring for the environment. By aligning our actions with these values, we can foster peace and harmony both within ourselves and in our interactions with others and the world around us.

Introduction - 2 marks

Content - 5 marks

Reasons & Examples- 4 marks

Conclusion - 2 marks

---

15. How does empathy towards others foster a sense of connection and harmony? Give suitable examples to substantiate your points.

ANS: Empathy towards others' experiences plays a crucial role in fostering a sense of connection and harmony in various ways:

a) Understanding and Validation: When we empathize with someone, we make an effort to understand their feelings, perspectives, and experiences. This validation of their emotions helps them feel heard and appreciated, strengthening our bond with them.

b) Building Trust: Empathy builds trust because it demonstrates that we genuinely care about others' well-being. When people feel understood and supported, they are more likely to trust us and reciprocate the empathy, creating a positive cycle of connection.

c) Conflict Resolution: Empathy is essential in resolving conflicts because it allows us to see the situation from the other person's point of view. By understanding their feelings and motivations, we can find common ground and work towards mutually beneficial solutions, reducing tension and promoting harmony.

d) Promoting Cooperation and Collaboration: Empathy encourages teamwork and collaboration because it fosters a sense of unity and shared purpose. When individuals feel understood and valued, they are more willing to work together towards common goals, leading to more effective and harmonious relationships.

e) Reducing Prejudice and Bias: Empathy helps challenge stereotypes and biases by encouraging us to see people as individuals with unique experiences and feelings. It promotes inclusivity and acceptance, fostering a more tolerant and harmonious community.

f) Supporting Emotional Well-being: When we empathize with others, we provide emotional support that can significantly impact their well-being. Knowing that someone understands and empathizes with their struggles can alleviate feelings of loneliness and isolation, contributing to a harmonious environment.

g) Cultivating Compassion: Empathy is closely linked to compassion, the motivation to alleviate others' suffering. Compassionate actions towards others create a culture of kindness and generosity, reinforcing connections and promoting a harmonious society.

Conclusion: In summary, empathy towards others' experiences fosters connection and harmony by promoting understanding, building trust, facilitating conflict resolution, encouraging cooperation, reducing prejudice, supporting emotional well-being, and cultivating compassion. It serves as a cornerstone for building positive relationships and creating inclusive communities where everyone feels valued and respected.

Introduction - 2 marks
Content - 5 marks
Reasons & Examples- 4 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

Part C

Answer the following in about 300 words each. 15 marks

1. Case study: Selvi, a 16-year-old high school student, faced significant family challenges when her parents decided to divorce after years of marital discord. This sudden change disrupted Selvi's sense of stability and raised emotional turmoil for her and her younger sibling. How to cope with such family problems by embracing human values?

ANS: Coping with family problems, such as parental divorce, is challenging, especially for a teenager like Selvi. Embracing human values can provide a framework for navigating these difficulties and maintaining emotional resilience. Here's how Selvi and her family can approach this situation by embracing core human values:

1. Honesty

Practice:

- Open Communication: Encourage honest discussions about the feelings and concerns of all family members. Acknowledge the difficulties and provide a safe space for everyone to express their emotions without judgment.

Application:

- Family Meetings: Hold regular family meetings where Selvi, her younger sibling, and her parents can openly discuss their feelings, expectations, and any changes that may occur due to the divorce. Honest communication helps in understanding each other's perspectives and managing emotional turmoil.

2. Integrity

Practice:

- Uphold Principles: Even in the face of divorce, maintaining a commitment to integrity involves acting consistently with one's values, avoiding blame, and respecting each family member's role in the situation.

Application:

- Avoid Blame: Encourage all family members, including Selvi, to avoid placing blame on any individual. Instead, focus on the future and finding solutions that support everyone's well-being. This approach can help reduce feelings of guilt or anger and foster a more supportive environment.

3. Compassion

Practice:

- Empathy and Support: Show compassion by being empathetic towards each other's feelings and offering support. Understanding that everyone is affected differently by the divorce can help in providing appropriate emotional support.

Application:

- Support System: Selvi and her family can create a support system where they check in on each other regularly, offer emotional support, and engage in activities that help reduce stress. For instance, Selvi can find comfort in talking to friends or a counselor about her feelings, while her parents might seek support from support groups or therapists.

4. Respect

Practice:

- Respect Boundaries: Respect each other's need for personal space and time to process the changes. Acknowledge and honor each family member's feelings and experiences related to the divorce.

Application:

- Personal Space: Allow Selvi and her younger sibling time to adjust to the new family dynamics and respect their need for privacy. Encourage respectful interactions among family members, even during times of conflict or stress.

5. Responsibility

Practice:

- Fulfilling Roles: Take responsibility for one's actions and contributions towards resolving the family situation. This includes managing personal feelings responsibly and contributing to creating a positive environment for all family members.

Application:

- Shared Responsibilities: Assign age-appropriate responsibilities to Selvi and her sibling, such as helping with household tasks or participating in family activities. This helps them feel involved and valued while also contributing to the family's well-being.

6. Resilience and Adaptability

Practice:

- Embrace Change: Focus on developing resilience by accepting the changes and adapting to the new family structure. Emphasize that while the family dynamics are changing, the love and support for each other remain constant.

Application:

- Adjust Routines: Selvi and her family can work together to establish new routines that accommodate the changes brought by the divorce. This could include finding new ways to spend time together, such as family outings or new traditions, which can help in adapting to the new normal.

7. Seek Professional Help

---

2. What does honesty and integrity mean to you, and how do you incorporate it into your daily actions and decisions?

ANS: Honesty and integrity are closely related concepts that play a crucial role in guiding personal behavior and decision-making. Here's an exploration of what they mean and how to incorporate them into daily actions and decisions:

I Honesty

Meaning:

- Honesty involves being truthful and transparent in one's thoughts, words, and actions. It means not deceiving or misleading others and being sincere in all interactions. It also includes being honest with oneself about one's feelings, strengths, weaknesses, and motivations.

Incorporation into Daily Actions and Decisions:

a) Transparent Communication:

- Example: When asked for feedback on a project at work, I provide constructive criticism based on facts rather than what I think the person wants to hear. This approach helps build trust and fosters genuine relationships.
- Practice: I make it a habit to communicate openly and clearly with colleagues, friends, and family, avoiding exaggerations or omissions.

b) Self-Reflection:

- Example: I regularly reflect on my actions and decisions to ensure that I am being truthful with myself about my motives and feelings. This helps me align my actions with my true values and goals.
- Practice: Journaling or meditating to understand my own motivations and feelings, ensuring that I address any discrepancies between my actions and my internal truths.

c) Admitting Mistakes:

- Example: If I make a mistake at work or in a personal project, I openly acknowledge it and take responsibility, rather than covering it up or shifting blame.
- Practice: I cultivate a mindset where admitting errors is seen as an opportunity for growth rather than a weakness.

II Integrity

Meaning:

- Integrity refers to adhering to a set of moral and ethical principles consistently, regardless of the situation or potential consequences. It means maintaining consistency between one's values and actions and being reliable and trustworthy.

Incorporation into Daily Actions and Decisions:

1. Consistent Actions:
   a) Example: I follow through on commitments and promises, even when it becomes inconvenient. For instance, if I promise to help a friend move on a certain date, I honor that commitment despite potential scheduling conflicts.
   b) Practice: I set realistic goals and deadlines and ensure that I meet them, demonstrating reliability and respect for others' time and expectations.
2. Ethical Decision-Making:
   a) Example: In situations where I could benefit from bending the rules or engaging in unethical behaviour, I choose to act according to my principles. For example, if I find a wallet on the street, I take it to the nearest lost and found instead of keeping it.

b) Practice: I consider the ethical implications of my decisions and choose actions that align with my core values, even when they might not be the easiest path.

3. Standing Up for What's Right:
    a) Example: If I witness someone being treated unfairly or unethically, I speak up or take appropriate action, even if it means confronting authority or facing discomfort.
    b) Practice: I cultivate courage and assertiveness to address and challenge unethical behavior or injustice, supporting a culture of integrity around me.

Conclusion

Incorporating honesty and integrity into daily actions and decisions requires a commitment to aligning one's behavior with personal values and ethical standards. Honesty ensures that interactions are truthful and transparent, fostering trust and authenticity. Integrity demands consistency between one's principles and actions, leading to reliability and respect. By consistently practicing these values, individuals can build strong, trust-based relationships and contribute to a more ethical and harmonious environment.

---

3. How can the comprehensive human goals of Right understanding, Prosperity, Trust, and Co-existence create harmony in society?

ANS: In order to facilitate the fulfilment of the basic aspirations of all human beings in society, the following comprehensive human goal needs to be understood.

1. Right understanding is necessary for human beings, for all human beings. When one does not have the right understanding, one remains disturbed and acts in a manner so as to create disharmony with other human beings as well as with the rest of nature.
2. Prosperity is needed in every family. Prosperity in the family means that the family is able to identify its needs and is able to produce/achieve more than its requirements.
3. Trust in society means every member of society feels related to everyone else and therefore there is trust and fearlessness.
4. Co-existence in nature means there is a relationship and complementarity among all the entities in nature including human beings.

Conclusion:

This is the comprehensive human goal. With a little exploration, we find that all four are required for human society. We are not satisfied with anything less than this. This is the basic minimum requirement to ensure sustainable happiness and prosperity. We can't cut down any of them. This is the minimum level that each one of us wants, and the maximum we can think of. We can't think of anything more than this. This is the target for each one of us, the whole human race and the human tradition. The moment we leave any of them out, there will be loss of continuity, and the goal cannot be achieved.

Introduction - 2 marks
Right understanding - 21/2 marks
Prosperity - 21/2 marks
Trust - 21/2 marks
Co-existence - 21/2 marks
Conclusion - 2 marks

---

4. What are the nine values necessary for good human relationships? Explain each one with real-life examples.

ANS: There are certain basic and important values in maintaining relationships. These values, we all know, are the backbone of health and happy family relations. The feelings, emotions, sentiments and respect all are of real importance. These values lead to elimination of friction and establishment of total harmony in relationships on a long term basis. Values that are important in any relationship. They are:

1. Trust: Trust is a foundational value in a relationship. If we have trust that the other person wishes us to be happy and prosperous, we see the other as a well-wisher and not as an enemy.

2. Respect: Once we realize that we are an individual different from others, we expect respect. In other words, Respect means right evaluation, to be evaluated as I am.

3. Affection: Affection is the feeling of being related to the other. Affection comes when I recognize that we both want to make each other happy and both of us are similar.

4. Care: The feeling of care is the feeling of nurturing and protecting the body of our relatives.

5. Guidance: The feeling of ensuring right understanding and feelings in the other (my relative) is called guidance. We understand the need of self ('I') for right understanding and feelings. We also understand that the other is like me in his/her faculty of natural acceptance, desire of wanting continuous happiness and the program of living in harmony at all the four levels.

6. Reverence: The feeling of acceptance of excellence in the other is called reverence. When we see that the other has achieved this excellence- which means to understand and to live in harmony at all the levels of living ensuring continuity of happiness, we have a feeling of reverence for him/her.

7. Glory: Each one of us wants to live with continuous happiness and prosperity. Each one of us has the similar faculty of natural acceptance, has the same goal and program and we have the same potential to realize this. Glory is the feeling for someone who has made efforts for excellence.

8. Gratitude: Gratitude is the feeling of acceptance for those who have made efforts for my excellence. Gratitude is an emotion that occurs after people receive help, depending on how they interpret the situation.

9. Love: Love is the emotion of strong affection and personal attachment. In other words, love is a feeling of warm personal attachment or deep affection, as for a parent, child, or friend. This feeling or value is also called the complete value since this is the feeling of relatedness to all human beings. It starts with identifying that one is related to the other human being (the feeling of affection) and it slowly expands to the feeling of being related to all human beings.

Conclusion: The above-mentioned values are the core of all relations. One has to follow all to gain on the day-to-day problems. These values are intrinsic and available in every person. We need to find out in ourselves and implement. Without implementation, one cannot think of a strong family relation.

4 values - 21/2 x 4=10 marks
Introduction - 2 marks Conclusion - 2 marks
